Legacy: What Will You Leave Behind?

Everyone should make sure they leave a financial legacy for their loved ones, and Genistar can certainly help you do that, but what else will you leave behind? How will you be remembered? Will people remember the way you inspired them… the things you taught them… the way you helped them change their lives?

This season, we're talking about legacy and different ways to make sure you leave value in the world – and especially in the lives of those you love. In this newsletter, you'll find real-life stories of people working on building their legacies – and since the holiday season is approaching, we also have a quiz for you to check your risk of going into holiday debt.

At Genistar we believe in the mission of helping people achieve financial freedom, and we offer an opportunity to build a business that can become part of your legacy. We're here to help you finish the year strong and build a legacy you'll be proud of.
